ABOUT GUANGZHOU UNIVERSITY

Guangzhou University is a comprehensive university named after the third largest city in China. In 2000, Guangzhou University merged with several other universities to become a single entity which offered a wider diversity of courses. Today, Guangzhou University boasts a history of ninety years, is becoming one of the best universities in China, and is being developed with the support of both the governments of Guangdong Province and Guangzhou City.

Guangzhou University provides students with a comprehensive variety of disciplines. In particular, Civil Engineering and Architecture, Regional Water and Water Ecological Protection and Mathematics and Information Science have been listed as key disciplines in the development of higher-level universities in Guangdong Province.

For many years, Guangzhou University has developed a great number of talented alumni, many of whom have worked on both national and provincial programs which have already brought about great social and economic benefits. In recent years, under the support of the Guangzhou Municipal Government, Guangzhou University has strongly leaped forward in its development of building a higher education institution that is of the highest caliber in China and recognized throughout the world. As of today, Guangzhou University has become a comprehensive university with special geographical advantages, distinctive educational models, notable comprehensive strength and strong momentum for development.

STUDENT LIFE

Guangzhou University has eighty student associations which host more than 12,000 members. These associations cover a wide range of interests including humanities, technology, public service, arts, and physical education. Each year, a cultural month is reserved for activities in which Guangzhou University student associations play an important role in ethics, scientific knowledge, vocational guidance and volunteer services.

Guangzhou University enjoys its own arts and performance team which includes the Guangzhou Ballet Troupe and the Guangzhou Singing and Dancing Troupe. Through the work of the Students Art Troupe, Guangzhou University carries on various cultural activities on our campus, including Culture and Art Festivals, Chinese Classics Reading, Classic Movies Appreciation, and Elegant Art Appreciation. In addition, Guangzhou University organizes various contests including Debate, Image Design, Career Design, Singing and Dancing, Hosting, and other contests which build upon a series of school cultural activity brands.

Guangzhou University is proud of its youth volunteer work. There are more than 12,000 registered volunteers who have built long-term cooperative volunteer service relationships with ten districts and sixty towns, streets, and units. Each year, nearly 10,000 young volunteers offer their services which are highly regarded by the communities they serve.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Guangzhou University offers generous scholarships to excellent international students. There are two types of scholarships - full scholarships and half scholarships. A full scholarship covers tuition, accommodation and a living allowance. A half scholarship covers tuition only.

All international students can apply for a scholarship after they are admitted and registered by Guangzhou University. To be considered for a scholarship, international students must first submit their application. The International Student Affairs Office will review all application materials and decide whether to award a scholarship or not and what type of scholarship to award. Students who are successful in applying for the scholarship will still need to pay their tuition and accommodation fees first to Guangzhou University when they register. The amount of the full scholarship will be the same as the tuition and accommodation fees they paid and the amount of the half scholarship will be the same as the tuition fee they paid. Scholarships will be awarded on a monthly basis or in a lump sum every December.
